

Science

Science planning follows the 'Engaging Science' scheme of work which ensures a practical based approach to science teaching. In each year group there are at least five units of work, one of which is taught across the year.